

Makeup, Hair and Colours to Compliment your Eyeglasses

Think of balancing and complementing the two

You love your makeup routine but with the entrance of your eyeglasses, you're now left wondering whether you should even bother with it anymore. Your eyeglasses seem set to vanquish all those smoky eyes and cat flicks permanently. *sniffle*

Endearing Eyebrows

As you probably know, your eyeglasses do frame your face but did you know that your eyebrows frame your eyeglasses? Trim and shape your eyebrows into the best version they can be because it makes a world of difference to your face. Much more so, when you don eyewear.

Lip Love

You don't even need to think about this one. Just go bold. Your eyewear will complement your bold lip seamlessly. In fact your eyewear downright loves a bold lip. Take your pick from the luscious assortment of fuchsia's, coral's and ruby red's out there. You can even coordinate your eye and your lip colour to max this look out.

The Cat Eye

Get those liners out, ladies and get your flick on. All you've got to do is line your flick with the upper corner of your eyeglasses to nail the framed cat eye look. We couldn't resist trying this one out first and the results spoke volumes.

Bigger can be Better

This holds true for your eyewear at least. None of your eye makeup will be hidden if you wear larger frames because it serves as a bigger canvas so to speak, to showcase your eyes.

Yellow-based Concealer

A yellow-based, under-eye concealer (cream or liquid) instantly brightens up your under-eyes. Leaving your entire face looking refreshed while simultaneously minimizing the shadow of the spectacle frames usually cast on the face.

Sparkly Makeup

To give your eyes a bit of sparkle under your glasses, go on and dab some shimmery light-reflecting powder on your lids or you can even line your eyes with emboldened metallic shades like glossy gold, electric blue or an acid green.

Hairstyle Tips Befitting your Eyewear

Bold

VS

Soft

If you have a bold hairstyle then go for frames which aren't as in-your face; think visually softer and lighter.

With a fringe, opt for lighter coloured frames and lighter fabrications too.

Whereas if you have a relatively simple or no fuss hairstyle, then going funky with those frames will give you that much desired edge.

Colour Theory

Metallic eyewear and frames in darker shades offset brown hair rather well. You can give tortoise-shell fabrications in a brown palette a shot as they look good on the brown-haired ones.

Blond-haired people on the other hand, do look good in lighter coloured frames

Redheads too can choose virtually any colour on the spectrum. If you want it, you can pretty much have it.
